

Not permitting nonprofit 501(c)(3) or (c)(6) associations to send faxes to members prohibits the timely delivery of information about upcoming educational programs and other important events that benefit members. The members of these associations pay dues to receive current information and faxing is a cost-effective way to communicate with a group who values such communication. These organizations should be exempt from these rules.